origin

All of a sudden with version 4.31 the origin when creating a new panel seems to be set willy-nilly. Never at a the bottom left corner as it used to be. Is it me or is there a reason for this?

Thanks,

REPH

Hello,

No, there is no reason for it and I can't replicate it on my Windows installation. Do you run on Windows?

Until we have figured this out, quick fix is shortcut n + 1 (on number pad). This will bring the origined in the lower left corner. Imagine the number pad as your panel; upper left corner = 7, center = 5, lower right = 3, etc.

Best regards,

Diane

I saw the same thing running Win 7 until I went into the Settings menu, set X origin and Y origin to zero (they already showed as zero but did it anyway) then ticked the "Use as default" box. Now it seems to be okay. All new designs put the origin in the lower left corner as desired.

I did that myself and it worked. But it would only work if there was a panel defined. Perhaps the "default" settings could be changed before a panel needs to be defined.
